

I am tired of the government always insinuating itself into commerce on behalf of campaign contributions and the pure need to exercise the power that it should not have. I know that we need laws but this has nothing to do with basic protection. This has to do with competition in the market place. Leave it alone and free enterprise will win out.